BPAC review date:

Brief Description: The Programme will strengthen environmental governance in the Asia-Pacific Region by promoting sustainable approaches for natural resources and environmental management at the local level and enhancing the opportunities for public participation in decision – making that affects natural resources use and livelihoods. The Programme will take the combined expertise of policy advisors and country programme officers in key practice and cross-cutting areas, namely, Energy and Environment Practice, the Democratic Governance Practice and Capacity Development. The Programme will have two components: (1) Enhancing cross-practice approaches for improved regional environmental governance; and (2) Developing country-specific activities and transboundary strategies for environmental governance.
