1. Executive Summary

The United Nations Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict (Team of Experts or TOE) was created ten years ago by Security Council resolution 1888 (2009) to assist national authorities in strengthening the rule of law with the aim of ensuring criminal accountability for perpetrators of conflict-related sexual violence (CRSV). Subsequent Security Council resolutions have reinforced the mandate of the Team of Experts; further elaborated the causes and consequences of CRSV and its linkages with other crimes including terrorism, trafficking and transnational organized crime; and brought greater focus to the needs of victims and the importance of justice to respond to and prevent CRSV.

The current iteration of the Joint Programme continues to build upon the experiences and lessons learned by the Team of Experts while supporting national authorities in strengthening the rule of law over the past decade. Further, it recognizes that while there has been progress at the normative level, sexual violence, like other serious international crimes continue to be a common feature of armed conflict across the world and perpetrators are rarely brought to justice. It also recognizes that demand among Member States for assistance by the Team of Experts remains high, often surpassing the Team of Experts' ability to respond given financial and human capacity constraints.

Based on its experiences, the Team of Experts has developed a theory of change premised on the assumption that strong political will to pursue justice; improved technical and operational capacity of national rule of law institutions and actors; and enhanced cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among actors will enable effective, victim-sensitive criminal proceedings for CRSV in line with international standards, resulting in increased accountability for such crimes and ultimately contributing to long-term peace, security and development.

Based on this theory of change, the Joint Programme will focus on (i) enhancing political will to promote accountability for CRSV at national, regional and international levels; (ii) enhancing technical and operational capacity of national rule of law institutions and actors to address accountability for CRSV; and (iii) enhancing cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among the range of actors (governments, civil society organizations (CSO), non-governmental organization (NGO), United Nations, etc.) working to promote accountability for CRSV.

In undertaking its work, the Team of Experts will continue to provide a “One UN” response to Member States through the use of a “co-lead entity” structure that currently includes the Department of Peace Operations (DPO), the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR); the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict (Office of the SRSG-SVC) and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). The Team of Experts works under the overall strategic leadership of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict (SRSG-SVC). This approach allows the Team of Experts to draw upon the comparative advantage of each co-lead entity to ensure coherence and maximum impact and also to feed its experiences back to the co-lead entities to strengthen their respective rule of law programmes. The Team of Experts also engages with UN partners through inter-agency coordination arrangements, most notably the Global Focal Point for the Rule of Law (GFP) and UN Action Against Sexual Violence in Conflict (UN Action).

Through its efforts, the Team of Experts seeks to contribute to the realization of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development Goals (SDG), in particular Goal 16 (peace, justice and strong institutions) and Goal 5 (gender equality and empowerment of women and girls). The work of the Team of Experts also contributes to other UN agendas, including Women, Peace and Security pursuant to Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) and the Sustaining Peace agenda endorsed by General Assembly in resolution 70/262 (2016).

2. Situation Analysis

A. Context

Over the past decade, there has been an evolution in the understanding of the causes and consequences of CRSV and its impact on international peace and security, as well as its linkages to other crimes including terrorism, trafficking and transnational organized crime. In addition, there is now greater recognition that the root causes of CRSV must be addressed. These root causes include structural gender-based inequalities, discrimination and harmful social norms, which drive sexual violence in peacetime and further expose affected populations, particularly women and girls, but also men and boys, to sexual violence when protective systems and structures are weakened or destroyed during conflict. In such contexts, weak adherence to the principles of rule of law and democratic governance result in the lack of independent and impartial justice institutions. This in turn undermines public confidence in rule of law institutions and actors, perpetuating instability and conflict.

It is now widely accepted that perpetrators of serious conflict-related crimes including sexual violence must be brought to justice, and the international normative framework for such crimes continues to develop and become increasingly robust. At the same time, CRSV continues to be a prominent feature of conflicts across the world and criminal proceedings against such perpetrators continue to be exceptional, whether in national, regional or international jurisdictions. There is no shortage of political rhetoric on the importance of justice and accountability for CRSV, but this has not been translated into investigations and prosecutions – which remain few, if non-existent, for many conflicts.

The most recent annual report of the Secretary-General on CRSV covers nineteen countries, and its annex lists 50 parties to armed conflict as being “credibly suspected of committing or being responsible for patterns of rape or other forms of sexual violence in situations of armed conflict on the agenda of the Security Council.”¹ These parties include both State actors and non-State actors, six of which are designated terrorist groups on the Al’Qaida/ISIL Sanctions List.² The report provides an overview of sexual violence perpetrated against thousands of victims, but these are likely only the “tip of the iceberg” in terms of the actual numbers of victims, of whom very few have been able to secure any sense of justice.

B. Response

Against this background, Member States and the United Nations have taken a number of steps which demonstrate their desire and willingness to address CRSV as a critical human rights, peace and security and development challenge.

Member States through the UN General Assembly adopted Agenda 2030 better aligning peacebuilding and development trajectories. With the adoption of the SDGs in September 2015, Member States reaffirmed their commitment to “leave no one behind” in the quest “to free the human race from the tyranny of poverty and want, and to heal and secure our planet.”³ While acknowledging that human development must encompass the priorities of peace and security, the international community endorsed a new, more comprehensive framework for advancing global development in the face of ongoing complex and multidimensional challenges.

The UN Security Council adopted resolutions 1820 (2008), 1888 (2009), 1960 (2010), 2106 (2013), 2331 (2016), 2447 (2018) and 2467 (2019), which have bolstered international efforts to prevent and respond to CRSV. In these resolutions, the Security Council has also declared that ending impunity for sexual violence in conflict is essential to the restoration of peace, reconciliation amongst communities, and deterrence of conflict-related sexual crimes in the future.

Former Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon adopted the Human Rights Up Front initiative, which has been continued by Secretary-General António Guterres, to increase the effectiveness of the UN system in protecting human rights and preventing conflict, strongly emphasizing the responsibility of the United Nations to support universal human rights and address early signs of serious violations and their political implications, including for CRSV.

The former Secretary-General also launched a Plan of Action to Prevent Violent Extremism⁴ which was built upon by Secretary-General Guterres through the signature of the new UN Global Counter-Terrorism Coordination Compact. The Compact aims to strengthen coordination and coherence in the counter-terrorism and prevention of violent extremism work of the UN system. These initiatives are critical for addressing CRSV since they are being used extensively by terrorist groups such as Boko Haram, Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (ISIL), Al-Shabaab and the Lord’s Resistance Army.

Several important initiatives have been launched that recognize the impact of today’s sociopolitical issues and the need to align the human rights, peacebuilding and development work across the UN system. These initiatives include a number of significant reviews of the UN – namely the High-Level Independent Panel on Peace Operations, the Advisory Group of Experts on the Review of the Peacebuilding Architecture, and the Global Study on UNSCR 1325 - which highlighted common themes relevant to all areas of UN work, such as the importance of conflict prevention; the need to strengthen partnerships; and the need to promote opportunities for greater participation of women and girls, particularly in conflict prevention and peacebuilding processes. Additionally, the reports of all of these reviews highlighted the importance of sustained financing and management of resources and capacities and the need for greater flexibility, efficiency and coordination to overcome operational hurdles and ensure rapid responses at the field level.

While many of the UN initiatives referenced above broadly focus on human rights, peace and security and development issues, the United Nations has also taken steps to specifically address accountability for CRSV.

Team of Experts

In order to help address the lack of accountability for CRSV, the Security Council adopted resolution 1888 (2009) which created the Team of Experts with the mandate to assist national authorities in strengthening the rule of law by ensuring criminal accountability for perpetrators of CRSV. The Team of Experts is the only dedicated Security Council mandated entity to provide this type of support on a global basis. The Team of Experts functions under a “co-lead entity” structure that currently includes DPO, OHCHR, UNDP and the Office of the SRSO-SVC as the lead United Nations mandate holder for CRSV. This approach allows the Team of Experts to draw upon the comparative advantage of each of the co-lead entities to ensure coherence and maximum impact and also to enable feed back to the co-lead entities to strengthen their respective approaches and programmes. Through this approach, the Team of Experts seeks to complement and further the implementation of the respective mandates and activities of its co-lead entities regarding CRSV.

Since its creation, demand among Member States for assistance by the Team of Experts has increased, often surpassing its ability to deliver given current financial and human capacity constraints. As a reflection of this demand, the Security Council in five separate resolutions, exhorted Member States to make use of the Team of Experts to address impunity for CRSV. The Team of Experts has been requested to provide assistance explicitly in ten joint and unilateral communiqués and frameworks of cooperation negotiated by the SRSO-SVC with Member States and non-State actors. To date, the Team of Experts has deployed to sixteen Member States; provided assistance to three regional organizations; and provided additional ad hoc advice at UN HQ and on the ground as needed and requested by Member States or the UN system.

Co-lead Entities

Office of the SRSO-SVC⁵

The Office of the SRSO-SVC is an office of the UN Secretariat and supports the SRSO-SVC. The SRSO-SVC serves as the United Nations’ spokesperson and political advocate on CRSV. The SRSO-SVC chairs UN Action and provides strategic leadership to the Team of Experts.

The Office of the SRSO-SVC was established by Security Council resolution 1888 (2009). In April 2017, the UN Secretary-General appointed Ms. Pramila Patten as the current SRSO-SVC. After assuming office SRSO Patten established the following three strategic priorities for the mandate: (i) converting cultures of impunity into cultures of justice and accountability through consistent and effective prosecution; (ii) fostering national ownership and leadership for a sustainable, survivor-centered response; and (iii) addressing the root causes of CRSV with structural gender inequality and discrimination, poverty and marginalization as its invisible driver in times of war and peace.

Department of Peace Operations⁶

DPO, currently led by Under-Secretary General for Peace Operations, Mr. Jean-Pierre Lacroix, provides political and executive direction to UN peace operations around the world and maintains contact with the Security Council, troop and financial contributors, and parties to the conflict in the implementation of Security Council mandates.

⁵ <https://www.un.org/sexualviolenceinconflict/about-us/about-the-office/>.

⁶ <https://peacekeeping.un.org/en/department-of-peace-operations>.

Peacekeeping is an inherently political endeavour and its ultimate success depends on active and sustainable political processes or the real prospect of a peace process. DPO works to integrate the efforts of United Nations, governmental and non-governmental entities in the context of UN peace operations. DPO also provides guidance and support on military, rule of law, mine action and other relevant issues to UN political and peacebuilding missions.

Of particular relevance to the Team of Experts is DPO's work through its Office of Rule of Law and Security Institutions that supports the police, justice and corrections components in UN peace operations as they work with national authorities to protect civilians, extend State authority, re-establish law and order and stabilize conflict and post-conflict situations. The Office of Rule of Law and Security Institutions provides expertise and integrated guidance in the key areas of police, justice, corrections, security sector reform, mine action and disarmament, demobilization and reintegration. The Team of Experts includes members from the Justice and Corrections Service (JCS) and the Police Division of the Office of Rule of Law and Security Institutions who support the delivery of mission mandates on justice and accountability for CRSV.

Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights⁷

OHCHR is the leading UN entity on human rights, entrusted by the General Assembly with a unique mandate to promote and protect all human rights for all people. Currently led by High Commissioner Ms. Michelle Bachelet, OHCHR plays a crucial role in safeguarding the integrity of the three interconnected pillars of the United Nations – peace and security, human rights and development.

With a leading human rights role and the important task of mainstreaming human rights into the UN system, OHCHR works with governments, civil society, national human rights institutions, other UN entities and regional and international organizations, to promote and protect human rights. OHCHR methods of work focus on three major dimensions: standard-setting, monitoring, and supporting Member States with implementation on the ground. OHCHR also focuses on supporting Member States to protect human rights in the context of development (and especially Agenda 2030) and peace and security.

OHCHR provides substantive and secretariat support to the different UN human rights bodies as they discharge their standard-setting and monitoring duties. OHCHR, for example, serves as the Secretariat of the Human Rights Council; supports the work of special procedures to monitor human rights in different countries or in relation to specific issues; and supports the core human rights treaty bodies mandated to monitor State parties' compliance with their treaty obligations. In addition, OHCHR works to support Member States' implementation of international human rights standards in all countries, including through its field presences (for instance human rights components of peace operations). OHCHR plays an essential role in identifying, highlighting, and developing responses to human rights challenges; monitoring human rights situations, trainings, and support in the areas of administration of justice, legislative reform, human rights treaty ratification, and human rights education. Of particular relevance to the Team of Experts is OHCHR's work on Equality, Development and Rule of Law, including especially as regards monitoring and investigations, gender equality and discrimination, victims' rights and justice. The Team of Experts includes a member from the Equality, Development and Rule of Law Section of OHCHR.

United Nations Development Programme⁸

UNDP, currently led by UNDP Administrator Mr. Achim Steiner, works in approximately 170 countries and territories, helping to eradicate poverty in all its forms and dimensions; accelerate structural transformations for sustainable development; and build resilience to crises and shocks, including at the humanitarian-development-peace nexus where it is uniquely situated because of its development mandate and integrator function.

Of particular relevance to the Team of Experts is the work of UNDP's Crisis Bureau's Global Programme on Strengthening the Rule of Law and Human Rights for Sustaining Peace and Fostering Development, which seeks to cultivate the conditions for people to experience greater peace and development and to be active participants in the decisions that affect their lives. Specifically, the Global Programme supports national partners to address the drivers of violent conflict and foster resilient communities that are supported by just institutions. The Global Programme also focuses on supporting the people and places most in need to ensure that no one is left behind in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Its efforts seek to strengthen the connections between people and their representatives, institutions at all levels of government, and states to one another to diminish inequalities and build positive peace. UNDP's demand-driven support is designed to kick-start progress towards: (i) greater political engagement; (ii) improved capacity of justice, security, and human rights institutions; (iii) responsive and accountable community security; (iv) the promotion and protection of human rights; (v) non-recurrence through transitional justice processes; (vi) access to justice for all; and (vii) women's equal participation in the justice and security sectors and ending sexual and gender-based violence. The Team of Experts includes a member from the UNDP Rule of Law, Security & Human Rights for Sustaining Peace and Development team who supports the strengthening of the rule of law and human rights for sustained peace and development.

UNDP also includes the Global Policy Network, which seeks to become a cutting-edge provider of timely development advice; provide support to country offices and programme countries in an integrated and coherent manner to instantly connect countries to the world of knowledge, resources and networks of best practice they need to achieve development breakthroughs.

Coordination Arrangements

Global Focal Point for the Rule of Law

The GFP is a UN platform co-chaired by DPO and UNDP that was established in 2012 to strengthen the provision of rule of law assistance to address and prevent violent conflict, to protect human rights and to restore justice and security for conflict-affected people. The GFP is a field-focused arrangement that enables UN entities, including the Executive Office of the Secretary-General (EOSG), OHCHR, United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), United Nations Office for Project Services, United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN Women) and others, to jointly pursue shared objectives, in accordance with their mandates and capacities. GFP partners promote UN norms and standards, including gender mainstreaming and human rights-based approaches.

GFP coordinating platforms and working group arrangements are established both at UN HQ and in the field to increase UN coherence, align strategies and programs with national development plans, serve as a single entry-point for host governments, and to achieve better results drawing on the expertise of the contributing agencies.

Through joint assessments, planning and programming, the GFP arrangement has been supporting a coordinated UN approach to rule of law assistance, relying primarily on voluntary funding and striving to increase impact and results by: (i) reducing competition; (ii) leveraging expertise; and (iii) encouraging innovation. The GFP and the Team of Experts are complementary and mutually beneficial. The GFP's scope encompasses rule of law broadly, while the scope of the Team of Experts' work is narrowly focused on accountability for CRSV. Moreover, while the Team of Experts is an operational entity which provides assistance directly to national authorities, the GFP is primarily a coordination mechanism for UN entities engaged in the rule of law area. The membership of DPO, OHCHR and UNDP in both the Team of Experts and the GFP ensures programmatic coherence and the optimization of resources across the key UN entities working on justice and accountability for conflict-related crimes including sexual violence.

UN Action Against Sexual Violence in Conflict

UN Action unites efforts across the UN system with the goal of ending sexual violence in conflict. The network is composed of fourteen UN entities and is chaired by the SRSG-SVC. The network represents a concerted effort by the United Nations to work as one by amplifying advocacy, improving coordination and accountability, and supporting country efforts to prevent CRSV and respond effectively to the needs of survivors. Current member entities include DPO, United Nations Department of Peacebuilding and Political Affairs (DPPA), International Organization for Migration (IOM), Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, OHCHR, Joint United Nations Program on HIV/AIDS, UNDP, United Nations Population Fund, UNHCR, United Nations Children's Fund, United Nations Office for Disarmament Affairs, UN Women, World Food Programme and World Health Organization.

3. Proposed Programme: Mandate, Lessons Learned and Theory of Change

A. Mandate

The Team of Experts was created by Security Council resolution 1888 (2009) to “deploy ... to situations of particular concern with respect to sexual violence in armed conflict, working through the United Nations presence on the ground and with the consent of the host government, to assist national authorities to strengthen the rule of law.” Pursuant to resolution 1888 (2009), the mandate of the Team of Experts is to: (i) work closely with national legal and judicial officials and other personnel in the relevant governments’ civilian and military justice systems to address impunity, including by strengthening national capacity and drawing attention to the full range of justice mechanisms to be considered; (ii) identify gaps in national response and encourage a holistic national approach in addressing CRSV, including by enhancing criminal accountability, judicial capacity and responsiveness to victims (such as reparations mechanisms); (iii) make recommendations to coordinate domestic and international efforts and resources to reinforce governments’ ability to address CRSV; and (iv) work with other UN mechanisms including the UN Mission, Country Team, and the SRSG-SVC.

Since the adoption of resolution 1888 (2009), the Security Council has further encouraged Member States to draw upon the expertise of the Team of Experts in additional resolutions:

- In resolution 2106 (2013), the Security Council “encourages concerned Member States to draw upon the expertise of the United Nations Team of Experts established pursuant to resolution 1888 (2009) as appropriate to strengthen the rule of law and the capacity of civilian and military justice systems to address sexual violence in armed conflict and post-conflict situations as part of broader efforts to strengthen institutional safeguards against impunity.”
- In resolution 2331 (2016), the Security Council “takes note with appreciation of the efforts undertaken by the [...] Team of Experts on Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict to strengthen monitoring and analysis of sexual violence in conflict, including when associated with trafficking in persons in armed conflict and post-conflict situations, used as a tactic of war and also as a tactic by certain terrorist groups”.
- In resolution 2447 (2018), the Security Council “requests the United Nations to emphasize prevention and response to conflict related sexual and gender-based violence and [...] assist national authorities to strengthen the rule of law, for instance through the work of the Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict.”
- In resolution 2467 (2019) the Security Council “stresses the critical role of the domestic investigation and judicial systems of Member States to prevent and eliminate sexual violence in conflict and to ensure accountability for those responsible, and requests relevant United Nations entities including the Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict established pursuant to resolution 1888 (2009) to support national authorities in their efforts in this regard.”

In line with its mandate, the Team of Experts focuses its efforts primarily on countries contained in the annual report of the Secretary-General on CRSV.⁹ However, the Team of Experts may also be engaged in other countries, upon request of national authorities, as well as the strategic advice of the SRSG-SVC.

B. Lessons Learned

In 2018, the Team of Experts recruited an external expert to conduct an independent mid-term review of its work. The purpose of the mid-term review was to assess the effectiveness of the Team of Experts in helping national authorities respond to CRSV in order to combat impunity and ensure accountability. The review covered the period from January 2015 to December 2017, approximately mid-way into the 2015-2019 Joint Programme, and resulted in a report containing findings and recommendations.¹⁰ Materials relating to the inception and operationalization of the Team of Experts were also reviewed to assess how the Team of Experts evolved over time. In summary, the review found the co-lead entity structure to be an “innovative and efficient arrangement” and the Team of Experts to be a “flexible and responsive mechanism that effectively supports Member States in strengthening their rule of law responses to conflict-related sexual violence.”

⁹ S/2019/280.

¹⁰ Report of the Mid-term Review of the 2015-2019 Joint Programme of the United Nations Team of Experts on the Rule of Law / Sexual Violence in Conflict, July 2018.

In terms of the quality of its work, the review described the Team of Experts as a “small but mighty” expert team and as a team that in many ways was closer to the ground than most in UN HQ, partly due to the fact that each Team of Experts member spends a lot of time in the field. The review also noted that interlocutors were often impressed with the expertise of individual Team of Experts members and largely agreed that the Team of Experts contributes to broader rule of law initiatives by providing very specific expertise on CRSV.

The review further noted that the Team of Experts fills a gap in prevention and response to CRSV that is not easily found elsewhere in the United Nations. When this is combined with operational flexibility, the review found that the added value of the Team of Experts is clear. At the field/national level, the review noted that the Team of Experts' status as an HQ entity with links to the co-lead entities at HQ level as well as access to the United Nations' most senior leadership including the Secretary-General through the SRSB-SVC provides leverage and weight to its efforts. Several interlocutors expressed the view that at the field level the Team of Experts was perceived by partners as operationally very strategic and politically savvy, often being in a position to take a step back and look at the country or regional context “in a more objective and comprehensive way than most United Nations and NGO staff operating inside the given country or region.”

In terms of recommendations, the review proposed, among other things, enhancing the engagement by the co-lead entities to ensure greater ownership; strengthening the strategic results framework and monitoring and evaluation system to better demonstrate results; reinforcing the capacity of the Team of Experts, for example with specialized expertise in military justice; enhancing the visibility of the Team of Experts' work; increasing engagement with donors; and clarifying the structure and functions of the Team of Experts in relation to the Office of the SRSB-SVC and UN Action.

Based on the findings of the mid-term review as well as lessons learned compiled after almost nine years in existence, the Team of Experts developed this 2020-2024 Joint Programme representing the fourth phase¹¹ of its work.

C. Theory of Change

Overview

The Team of Experts' theory of change is based on the premise that (i) strong political will; (ii) improved technical and operational capacity of national rule of law institutions and actors; and (iii) enhanced cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among actors will enable effective, victim sensitive criminal proceedings for CRSV in line with international standards, resulting in increased accountability for such crimes and ultimately contribute to long-term peace, security and development. Each of these three components is critical for criminal proceedings to be initiated and successfully concluded. Thus, no amount of technical assistance will be effective without a conducive political environment. Similarly, the lack of coordination with other relevant actors can seriously undermine efforts to pursue justice, regardless of the existence of strong political commitment to combat impunity or the development of necessary technical and operational capacity.

The Team of Experts will pursue its theory of change in line with the principles of national ownership, leadership and responsibility, and utilizing a victim-sensitive and human rights-based approach. In pursuing its theory of change, the Team of Experts will work with UN and external partners, ensuring that its work is integrated and aligned with the co-lead entities at both UN HQ and in the field.

Analysis of Political Will

Problem: The lack of political will to promote accountability for CRSV at the national, regional and international levels undermines accountability efforts by preventing the adoption and implementation of internationally compliant laws, policies, and procedures; impeding criminal proceedings; maintaining existing gender norms and gender-based discrimination and stereotypes that may negatively impact and stigmatize victims of CRSV; and limiting resources for rule of law institutions and actors.

Assumption: The assumption is that enhancing political will to promote accountability for CRSV at the national, regional and international levels will promote the adoption and implementation of internationally compliant laws, policies, and procedures; enable criminal proceedings; challenge existing gender norms and gender-based discrimination and stereotypes that negatively impact and stigmatize victims of CRSV; and increase available resources for rule of law institutions and actors.

Approach: Security Council resolution 1888 (2009) mandates the Team of Experts to work “with the consent of the host government [. . .] to assist national authorities to strengthen the rule of law.” Through engagement with Member States; international, regional, and national mechanisms and bodies, including the Security Council; NGOs; CSOs and others, the Team of Experts seeks to generate political will to promote accountability for CRSV and ensure consistent political advocacy around accountability efforts. The Team of Experts also utilizes opportunities provided by the SRSG-SVC’s formal agreements with Member States in the form of joint communiqués and frameworks of cooperation, the Security Council’s country-specific mandates for UN peace operations, and the Secretary-General’s country and thematic reports to highlight the need for justice and accountability.

Evidence: The Team of Experts has successfully utilized the opportunities provided by the inclusion of strong accountability-related language in the SRSG-SVC’s formal agreements with Member States, the Security Council’s country-specific mandates for UN peace operations, the Secretary-General’s country and thematic reports, as well as other channels. These efforts have led to Member States requesting or consenting to the assistance of the Team of Experts as well as expanding the scope for assistance by the Team of Experts under country-specific peace operations mandates. This has been the case, for example, with the Team of Experts’ support to the military justice authorities in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), where the SRSG-SVC signed a joint communiqué on preventing and addressing CRSV and the Security Council has mandated United Nations Organization Stabilization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUSCO) to support the Congolese authorities in investigating and prosecuting serious conflict-related crimes including sexual violence.

Risk: Even with evidence demonstrating the positive results of the proposed approach, there are still risks, including (i) domestic power structures and dynamics inhibiting law reform and accountability efforts despite the political will of relevant actors; (ii) political will not translating into changes in gender norms and gender-based discrimination and stereotypes that negatively impact and stigmatize victims of CRSV; and (iii) political will at the national, regional and international levels not translating into an increase in resources for rule of law institutions and actors.

Analysis of Technical and Operational Capacity

Problem: The lack of technical and operational capacity of national rule of law institutions and actors to address accountability for CRSV limits the geographical presence and professionalism of justice authorities and other actors, leading to accountability processes which are not compliant with international standards, further undermining confidence in the justice system and contributing to continued instability and conflict.

Assumption: The assumption is that enhancing the technical and operational capacity of national rule of law institutions and actors to address accountability for CRSV will increase the geographical presence and professionalism of justice authorities, contributing to an increase in internationally compliant accountability processes, building confidence in the justice system and promoting stability and reducing conflict.

Approach: Security Council resolution 1888 (2009) mandates the Team of Experts to “identify gaps in national responses and encourage a holistic national approach” as well as to “work closely with national legal and judicial officials and other personnel in the relevant governments’ civilian and military justice systems to address impunity, including by the strengthening of national capacity, and drawing attention to the full range of justice mechanisms to be considered.” Based on this mandate, the Team of Experts provides technical and operational support on the basis of assessments it undertakes to strengthen the geographical presence and professionalism of rule of law authorities and other actors in areas including, inter alia, (i) criminal investigations and prosecutions; (ii) military justice; (iii) legislative reform; (iv) protection of victims and witnesses; and (v) reparations for victims. In addition to specific technical and operational support, the Team of Experts assists governments in developing strategies, plans of action and policy and guidance tools, to address accountability for CRSV.

Evidence: The Team of Experts, together with the Office of the SRSO-SVC, UN peace operations and UNCTs, has provided technical and operational support in a number of countries, including the Central African Republic (CAR), Cote d'Ivoire, the DRC, Guinea, Somalia and South Sudan. Such technical and operational support has resulted in significant positive developments toward accountability for CRSV, including the establishment of the rapid response unit within the police and gendarmerie to investigate sexual and gender-based violence in the CAR in 2017, the indictment by a panel of judges of 15 high-level individuals in Guinea for crimes committed at the Conakry Stadium in September 2019, including sexual violence against 109 women and girls, and the conviction by a military court of a provincial parliamentarian and his co-defendants for the serial rapes and murders of 39 children in DRC in December 2017 and upheld on appeal in July 2018.

Risk: Even with evidence demonstrating the positive results of the proposed approach, there are still risks, including (i) political instability and insecurity in the countries where the Team of Experts is engaged; (ii) insufficient resources and capacities to meet the needs of national rule of law institutions and actors; (iii) internal and external processes and procedures that delay the Team of Experts' engagement; and (iv) delays on the part of national counterparts in moving forward with capacity-building initiatives.

Analysis of Cooperation and Coordination

Problem: The lack of cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among the range of actors (governments, CSOs, NGOs, United Nations, etc.) working to promote accountability for CRSV limits information sharing, creates unrealistic expectations, contributes to fragmentation, reduces available resources and undermines efforts to deliver justice in an integrated, coherent and sustainable manner in line with international standards.

Assumption: The assumption is that enhancing cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among the range of actors (governments, CSOs, NGOs, United Nations, etc.) working to promote accountability for CRSV will improve information sharing, foster realistic expectations, reduce fragmentation, increase available resources and facilitate the delivery of justice in an integrated, coherent and sustainable manner in line with international standards.

Approach: Security Council resolution 1888 (2009) mandates the Team of Experts to "make recommendations to coordinate domestic and international efforts and resources to reinforce the government's ability to address sexual violence." Based on this mandate, the Team of Experts tracks and analyzes country situations for CRSV as well as any corresponding response by rule of law institutions and actors, and utilizes its findings and analysis from assessments to inform its discussions with relevant authorities and partners to plan and coordinate future engagements. The Team of Experts also draws upon its engagements in a wide range of contexts to foster experience sharing and learning between counterparts in countries that have experienced CRSV.

Evidence: The Team of Experts has used its technical assessment missions and reports to highlight to governments and partners substantive areas for greater focus; coordinated with UN and non-UN partners to ensure coherence and impact of engagements in focus countries; and facilitated experience sharing exercises to enhance knowledge and understanding on how to address accountability for CRSV, for example between the Government of Cote d'Ivoire and Sierra Leone. The Team of Experts has also utilized the GFP to ensure linkages between its work and other UN actors working on justice and accountability, most notably in relation to CAR, DRC, Guinea and South Sudan.

Risk: Even with evidence demonstrating the positive results of the proposed approach, there are still risks that limit cooperation and coordination, including (i) differing or competing priorities within and outside the United Nations; (ii) differing, overlapping or competing mandates between the Team of Experts and other UN and non-UN actors; (iii) lack of technical and financial resources to address identified gaps; (iv) constraints and earmarking by Member States limiting the flexibility, timing and use of funding; and (v) resistance to coordination with a small New York based team such as the Team of Experts by larger UN entities deployed or deploying to a specific country.

Inputs

Key inputs required for the initiatives being pursued by the Team of Experts under the Joint Programme will require the support of the co-lead entities and include: (i) consistent, reliable and sustained funding with limited earmarking or conditions – particularly as the Team of Experts operates exclusively on extra-budgetary funding; (ii) qualified and stable staffing – the Team of Experts is a very small team that depends greatly on each of its members to achieve its objectives; (iii) Member State and UN support – the Team of Experts depends on the support and engagement of Member States and co-lead entities and the UN system more broadly to implement its mandate; and (iv) complementarity with other actors – the Team of Experts cannot succeed if it works in isolation of other actors supporting efforts to address accountability for CRSV and prevent impunity overall for serious conflict-related crimes.

See below Diagram 1: Theory of Change.

4. Results

A. Outputs, Indicative Activities and Expected Results

Output 1: Political will to promote accountability for CRSV at country, regional and international levels enhanced.

Political will is essential to promoting accountability for CRSV at national, regional and international levels. The lack of political will undermines accountability efforts by preventing the adoption and implementation of internationally compliant laws, policies and procedures. In the absence of strong political will for positive change, criminal proceedings can be impeded or undermined. Further, the lack of political will enables the perpetuation of existing norms and stereotypes that may negatively impact and stigmatize victims of CRSV.

To address these challenges, the Team of Experts will seek to generate political will, directly and through the co-lead entities to promote accountability for CRSV and ensure consistent political advocacy and messaging around accountability efforts.

Activities carried out under this output may include:

- Engaging Member States, including host countries, to promote accountability for CRSV;
- Engaging international, regional and national mechanisms and bodies to promote accountability for CRSV, including the Security Council;
- Engaging NGOs and CSOs to promote accountability for CRSV;
- Engaging colleagues in relevant UN departments, agencies, funds and programmes to promote joint positioning and coordinated approaches to supporting accountability for CRSV;
- Recommending high-level political advocacy by senior UN officials, specifically the SRSG-SVC, SRSGs in countries hosting UN peace operations and Resident Coordinators;
- Contributing to Secretary-General's reports on relevant countries and thematic issues; and
- Participating in relevant mandate development and renewal processes for peace operations.

Expected Result: Enhanced political will to promote accountability for CRSV at country, regional and international levels.

Output 2: Technical and operational capacity of national rule of law institutions and actors to address accountability for CRSV enhanced.

Strong technical and operational capacities of national rule of law institutions and actors is essential to addressing accountability for CRSV. A lack of technical and operational capacities limits the geographical presence and professionalism of national authorities to fulfil the obligations of the state. These deficiencies lead to criminal proceedings which are not compliant with international standards, further undermining confidence in the justice system.

To address these challenges, the Team of Experts will seek to provide tailored technical and operational support to national rule of law institutions and actors to address accountability for CRSV.

Activities carried out under this output may include:

- Developing concept notes, projects, and funding proposals focused on promoting accountability in collaboration with stakeholders and partners to mobilize resources and support and to facilitate linkages with UN and non-UN partners;
- Providing technical, strategic and programmatic advice and support to partners and beneficiaries on relevant policies/legislation, cases, capacity-building, institution building, etc.
- Participating in the development of joint communiqués and frameworks of cooperation to ensure the inclusion of justice and accountability elements, as appropriate;
- Participating in the development of implementation plans and action plans for joint communiqués and frameworks of cooperation to ensure the inclusion of justice and accountability elements, as appropriate;
- Organizing and undertaking assessment missions to identified countries/situations;
- Preparing assessment reports regarding specific countries; and

- Conducting follow up missions on the implementation of assessment report recommendations.

Expected Result: Enhanced technical and operational capacity of national rule of law institutions and actors to address accountability for CRSV at the country level.

Output 3: Cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among the range of actors (governments, CSOs, NGOs, United Nations, etc.) working to promote accountability for CRSV enhanced.

Strong cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among actors is essential to achieving accountability for CRSV. Weak cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge results in fragmentation, unrealistic expectations and reduced resources, undermining efforts to deliver justice in an integrated, coherent and sustainable manner in line with international standards.

To address these challenges, the Team of Experts will seek to share knowledge and coordinate its work with relevant authorities and partners to deliver integrated, coherent and sustainable interventions.

Activities carried out under this output may include:

- Developing a network of contacts within governments, CSOs, NGOs, United Nations, etc. to facilitate coordination and information sharing;
- Tracking “situations of concern” for CRSV through media, network of contacts, etc.;
- Analyzing country/situation specific CRSV information, including specific requests by Member States, UN partners, etc. to determine whether the context falls within the Team of Experts mandate;
- Coordinating with relevant national authorities, UN partners, etc. regarding possible engagement in particular countries/situations;
- Advocating for the implementation of the findings and recommendations of Team of Experts assessments within and outside the United Nations;
- Preparing or contributing to reports, updates, briefings, conferences, etc. at international, regional and national levels to promote learning on emerging challenges and approaches to promoting accountability for CRSV based on knowledge and experience in particular countries/situations;
- Facilitating experience sharing, based on knowledge and experience in particular countries/situations; and
- Developing and consolidating policy and guidance tools for promoting accountability for CRSV.

Expected Result: Enhanced cooperation, coordination, coherence and knowledge among the range of actors (governments, CSOs, NGOs, United Nations, etc.) working to promote accountability for CRSV.

Target: Promote the rule of law at the national and international levels and ensure equal access to justice for all (SDG target 16.3)

Indicator: Proportion of victims of violence in the previous 12 months who report their victimization to competent authorities or other officially recognized conflict resolution mechanisms (SDG indicator 16.3.1)

Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls. (SDG 5)

Baseline: None¹³

Indicator: Proportion of women and girls aged 15 years and older subject to sexual violence by persons other than an intimate partner in the previous 12 months, by age and place of occurrence. (SDG indicator 5.2.2)

Outcome

Greater accountability for CRSV through prompt, effective and victim sensitive criminal proceedings carried out in line with international standards.

Given the complex nature and diverse contexts in which the Team of Experts works, relevant, consistent and reliable data is generally not available and few if any global indices track criminal proceedings in these countries exist, which makes this information highly difficult and resource-intensive to obtain. Therefore, the Team of Experts proposes to utilize information from its identified outputs and country level reporting to prepare a short qualitative assessment at the outcome level of its progress in contributing to greater accountability for CRSV through prompt, effective and victim-sensitive criminal proceedings carried out in line with international standards.

5. Structural, Management and Coordination Arrangements

A. Structural Arrangements

The Team of Experts functions under a “co-lead entity” structure that currently includes members from several UN entities to enable the United Nations to deliver as one in assisting Member States to address CRSV. The Team of Experts includes experts from DPO, OHCHR, the Office of the SRSG-SVC¹⁸ and UNDP. Additional UN entities may join the Team of Experts in the future based on interest, need and availability of resources.

To promote balance in decision making and to draw upon the resources, infrastructure, and operational and programmatic capacities of both the UN Secretariat and UN agencies, funds and programmes, the Team Leader sits within the Office of the SRSG-SVC and the Deputy Team Leader currently sits within UNDP, the only non-Secretariat co-lead entity. Each of the other experts is located in his or her respective co-lead entity. This structure facilitates enhanced communication and greater coherence by ensuring that efforts being undertaken by the Team of Experts complements and informs the work of respective co-lead entities to address CRSV. The Team of Experts operates from New York and includes experts based full-time in the field.

B. Relationship with the Co-lead Entities

The Team of Experts and its co-lead entities have a special relationship, consistent with the mandate and comparative advantage of each entity.

- The Team of Experts complements and reinforces the implementation of the respective mandates and activities of its co-lead entities regarding CRSV.
- The Team of Experts promotes the joint positioning and coordinated engagement of the field presences of the co-lead entities regarding CRSV, including through the embedment or co-location of experts within field presences.
- The Team of Experts serves as a point of reference and resource for knowledge sharing for the co-lead entities on issues related to CRSV and the rule of law.
- The co-lead entities support the implementation of the mandate of the Team of Experts, including through the coordination of strategies, exchange of information and provision of support before, during and after Team of Experts deployments to the field.
- The co-lead entities facilitate the use of the good offices of their most senior officials to promote the implementation of the Team of Experts’ mandate in the countries where the Team of Experts is engaged.
- The co-lead entities support resource mobilization for the Team of Experts through the advocacy and good offices of their senior officials.

C. Management Arrangements

Team of Experts

The Team of Experts operates under the strategic leadership of the SRSG-SVC, pursuant to operative paragraph 14 of Security Council resolution 2467 (2019). The Team of Experts is led by the Team Leader (D1) under the direction of the ¹⁸ The Office of the SRSG-SVC, which was not previously a co-lead entity of the Team of Experts, has been added as a co-lead entity to facilitate coordination, information sharing, and the allocation of funds to members of the Team of Experts administered under the Office of the SRSG-SVC.

Advisory Group. The Team Leader is supported in the management and operation of the Team of Experts by the Deputy Team Leader (P5).

The Team Leader reports to the SRSG-SVC or her/his designated representative. The Advisory Group also provides feedback to the Team Leader and the Team of Experts on programme delivery. The Office of the SRSG-SVC members of the Team of Experts, currently a Judicial Affairs Officer (P4), Associate Expert in Sexual Violence in Conflict – Africa (P2) and the Team Assistant (G5), have reporting lines to the Deputy Team Leader as the First Reporting Officer and the Team Leader as the Second Reporting Officer. Experts from the other co-lead entities have a dual reporting line to their respective co-lead entity and to the Team Leader. Experts based in the field have dual reporting lines to the relevant entities on the ground as well as the Team Leader in New York.

For additional information on management arrangements see Annex E.

- Iraq (P4) in UNDP Iraq

Notes:

- Dotted lines reflect links to co-lead entities.
- Solid lines reflect reporting lines of members of the Team of Experts to the respective co-lead entity and the Team Leader. For the Team Leader, the solid line reflects a reporting line to the SRSO-SVC or her/his designate. For member of the Team of Experts in the Office of the SRSO-SVC, the solid line reflects a reporting line through the Deputy Team Leader to the Team Leader.
- Administrative staff positions are not reflected in the diagram.

Advisory Group

The Advisory Group is comprised of one designated senior representative per co-lead entity (DPO, OHCHR, Office of the SRSG-SVC and UNDP) at P-5 level or above.

The role of the Advisory Group consists of:

Programme

- Overseeing the management and delivery of the Joint Programme to ensure targeted results, coherence and impact over time;
- Providing advice and guidance to the Team of Experts on possible countries and thematic areas of engagement, and partnerships;
- Providing advice and guidance on how the Team of Experts can enhance programming of the co-lead entities;
- Endorsing annual and final reports of the Team of Experts;
- Supporting the implementation of Team of Experts recommendations, including those identified on the basis of country-specific assessments; and
- Facilitating the signature of Joint Programmes of the Team of Experts by the respective co-lead entities and participate in other approval processes as needed.

Resources

- Supporting the Team of Experts in its efforts to mobilize resources; and

Therefore, the Team of Experts proposes to utilize information from its identified outputs and country level reporting to prepare a short qualitative assessment at the outcome level of its progress in contributing to greater accountability for CRSV through prompt, effective and victim-sensitive criminal proceedings carried out in line with international standards.

Part A. Integrating Overarching Principles to Strengthen Social and Environmental Sustainability

QUESTION 1: How Does the Project Integrate the Overarching Principles in order to Strengthen Social and Environmental Sustainability?
Briefly describe in the space below how the Project mainstreams the human-rights based approach
The Joint Programme specifically focuses on addressing CRSV, which has its root causes in, among other factors, gender inequality and discrimination, and the general lack of respect for human rights, including political, civil, economic, social and cultural rights. The Joint Programme will seek to mainstream human rights as part of its work, including by promoting key human-rights based approach principles, including equality, non-discrimination, and accountability through the rule of law. As part of its approach to providing assistance, the Joint Programme will seek to ensure wide participation and consultation with survivors of CRSV, vulnerable groups, and affected communities.
Briefly describe in the space below how the Project is likely to improve gender equality and women’s empowerment
The Joint Programme specifically focuses on addressing CRSV, which has its root causes in, among other factors, gender inequality and discrimination, and the general lack of respect for human rights, including political, civil, economic, social and cultural rights. The Joint Programme seeks to empower victims of CRSV, who are mostly women and girls, through justice and accountability. These efforts will help to breakdown negative social norms within communities and address issues of stigma not only for women and girls, but also for men and boys who experience CRSV. V.
Briefly describe in the space below how the Project mainstreams environmental sustainability
The Joint Programme does not directly address conservation, biodiversity, or protection of natural habitats as it focuses on assisting national authorities in strengthening the rule of law with the aim of ensuring criminal accountability for perpetrators of CRSV. However, strengthening the rule of law broadly can also improve accountability and enforcement mechanisms aimed at ensuring environmental sustainability.

Part B. Identifying and Managing Social and Environmental Risks

I = 2 P = 4	Low	As technical assistance is a large component of the Joint Programme, travel will be required.	Where possible, remote support will be explored such as through IT mechanisms.
QUESTION 4: What is the overall Project risk categorization?
Select one (see SESP for guidance)
Low Risk		<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	The Joint Programme focuses on assisting national authorities in strengthening the rule of law with the aim of ensuring criminal accountability for perpetrators of CRSV. 1.	Could the Project lead to adverse impacts on enjoyment of the human rights (civil, political, economic, social or cultural) of the affected population and particularly of marginalized groups?	No
2.	Is there a likelihood that the Project would have inequitable or discriminatory adverse impacts on affected populations, particularly people living in poverty or marginalized or excluded individuals or groups? ³⁹	No
3.	Could the Project potentially restrict availability, quality of and access to resources or basic services, in particular to marginalized individuals or groups?	No
4.	Is there a likelihood that the Project would exclude any potentially affected stakeholders, in particular marginalized groups, from fully participating in decisions that may affect them?	No
5.	Is there a risk that duty-bearers do not have the capacity to meet their obligations in the Project?	Yes
6.	Is there a risk that rights-holders do not have the capacity to claim their rights?	Yes
7.	Have local communities or individuals, given the opportunity, raised human rights concerns regarding the Project during the stakeholder engagement process?	No
8.	Is there a risk that the Project would exacerbate conflicts among and/or the risk of violence to project-affected communities and individuals?	Yes
Principle 2: Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment
1.	Is there a likelihood that the proposed Project would have adverse impacts on gender equality and/or the situation of women and girls?	No
2.	Would the Project potentially reproduce discriminations against women based on gender, especially regarding participation in design and implementation or access to opportunities and benefits?	Yes
3.	Have women's groups/leaders raised gender equality concerns regarding the Project during the stakeholder engagement process and has this been included in the overall Project proposal and in the risk assessment?	No
4.	Would the Project potentially limit women's ability to use, develop and protect natural resources, taking into account different roles and positions of women and men in accessing environmental goods and services? For example, activities that could lead to natural resources degradation or depletion in communities who depend on these resources for their livelihoods and well being	No
Principle 3: Environmental Sustainability: Screening questions regarding environmental risks are encompassed by the specific Standard-related questions below
Standard 1: Biodiversity Conservation and Sustainable Natural Resource Management
1.1	Would the Project potentially cause adverse impacts to habitats (e.g. modified, natural, and critical habitats) and/or ecosystems and ecosystem services? For example, through habitat loss, conversion or degradation, fragmentation, hydrological changes	No
1.2	Are any Project activities proposed within or adjacent to critical habitats and/or environmentally sensitive areas, including legally protected areas (e.g. nature reserve, national park), areas proposed for protection, or recognized as such by authoritative sources and/or indigenous peoples or local communities?	No
1.3	Does the Project involve changes to the use of lands and resources that may have adverse impacts on habitats, ecosystems, and/or livelihoods? (Note: if restrictions and/or limitations of access to lands would apply, refer to Standard 5)	No
1.4	Would Project activities pose risks to endangered species?	No
1.5	Would the Project pose a risk of introducing invasive alien species?	No
1.6	Does the Project involve harvesting of natural forests, plantation development, or reforestation?	No
1.7	Does the Project involve the production and/or harvesting of fish populations or other aquatic species?	No

³⁹ Prohibited grounds of discrimination include race, ethnicity, gender, age, language, disability, sexual orientation, religion, political or other opinion, national or social or geographical origin, property, birth or other status including as an indigenous person or as a member of a minority. References to "women and men" or similar is understood to include women and men, boys and girls, and other groups discriminated against based on their gender identities, such as transgender people and transsexuals.

1.8	Does the Project involve significant extraction, diversion or containment of surface or ground water? For example, construction of dams, reservoirs, river basin developments, groundwater extraction	No
1.9	Does the Project involve utilization of genetic resources? (e.g. collection and/or harvesting, commercial development)	No
1.10	Would the Project generate potential adverse transboundary or global environmental concerns?	No
1.11	Would the Project result in secondary or consequential development activities which could lead to adverse social and environmental effects, or would it generate cumulative impacts with other known existing or planned activities in the area? For example, a new road through forested lands will generate direct environmental and social impacts (e.g. felling of trees, earthworks, potential relocation of inhabitants). The new road may also facilitate encroachment on lands by illegal settlers or generate unplanned commercial development along the route, potentially in sensitive areas. These are indirect, secondary, or induced impacts that need to be considered. Also, if similar developments in the same forested area are planned, then cumulative impacts of multiple activities (even if not part of the same Project) need to be considered.	No
Standard 2: Climate Change Mitigation and Adaptation
2.1	Will the proposed Project result in significant ⁴⁰ greenhouse gas emissions or may exacerbate climate change?	Yes
2.2	Would the potential outcomes of the Project be sensitive or vulnerable to potential impacts of climate change?	No
2.3	Is the proposed Project likely to directly or indirectly increase social and environmental vulnerability to climate change now or in the future (also known as maladaptive practices)? For example, changes to land use planning may encourage further development of floodplains, potentially increasing the population's vulnerability to climate change, specifically flooding	No
Standard 3: Community Health, Safety and Working Conditions
3.1	Would elements of Project construction, operation, or decommissioning pose potential safety risks to local communities?	No
3.2	Would the Project pose potential risks to community health and safety due to the transport, storage, and use and/or disposal of hazardous or dangerous materials (e.g. explosives, fuel and other chemicals during construction and operation)?	No
3.3	Does the Project involve large-scale infrastructure development (e.g. dams, roads, buildings)?	No
3.4	Would failure of structural elements of the Project pose risks to communities? (e.g. collapse of buildings or infrastructure)	No
3.5	Would the proposed Project be susceptible to or lead to increased vulnerability to earthquakes, subsidence, landslides, erosion, flooding or extreme climatic conditions?	No
3.6	Would the Project result in potential increased health risks (e.g. from water-borne or other vector-borne diseases or communicable infections such as HIV/AIDS)?	No
3.7	Does the Project pose potential risks and vulnerabilities related to occupational health and safety due to physical, chemical, biological, and radiological hazards during Project construction, operation, or decommissioning?	No
3.8	Does the Project involve support for employment or livelihoods that may fail to comply with national and international labor standards (i.e. principles and standards of ILO fundamental conventions)?	No
3.9	Does the Project engage security personnel that may pose a potential risk to health and safety of communities and/or individuals (e.g. due to a lack of adequate training or accountability)?	No
Standard 4: Cultural Heritage
4.1	Will the proposed Project result in interventions that would potentially adversely impact sites, structures, or objects with historical, cultural, artistic, traditional or religious values or intangible forms of culture (e.g. knowledge, innovations, practices)? 5.3	Is there a risk that the Project would lead to forced evictions? ⁴¹	No
5.4	Would the proposed Project possibly affect land tenure arrangements and/or community based property rights/customary rights to land, territories and/or resources?	No
Standard 6: Indigenous Peoples
6.1	Are indigenous peoples present in the Project area (including Project area of influence)?	No
6.2	Is it likely that the Project or portions of the Project will be located on lands and territories claimed by indigenous peoples?	No
6.3	Would the proposed Project potentially affect the human rights, lands, natural resources, territories, and traditional livelihoods of indigenous peoples (regardless of whether indigenous peoples possess the legal titles to such areas, whether the Project is located within or outside of the lands and territories inhabited by the affected peoples, or whether the indigenous peoples are recognized as indigenous peoples by the country in question)? If the answer to the screening question 6.3 is “yes” the potential risk impacts are considered potentially severe and/or critical and the Project would be categorized as either Moderate or High Risk.	No

7.3	Will the proposed Project potentially involve the manufacture, trade, release, and/or use of hazardous chemicals and/or materials? Does the Project propose use of chemicals or materials subject to international bans or phase-outs? For example, DDT, PCBs and other chemicals listed in international conventions such as the Stockholm Conventions on Persistent Organic Pollutants or the Montreal Protocol	No
7.4	Will the proposed Project involve the application of pesticides that may have a negative effect on the environment or human health?	No
7.5	Does the Project include activities that require significant consumption of raw materials, energy, and/or water?	No

⁴¹ Forced evictions include acts and/or omissions involving the coerced or involuntary displacement of individuals, groups, or communities from homes and/or lands and common property resources that were occupied or depended upon, thus eliminating the ability of an individual, group, or community to reside or work in a particular dwelling, residence, or location without the provision of, and access to, appropriate forms of legal or other protections.

Annex F: Team of Experts Advisory Group Terms of Reference

Background – On 30 September 2009, the UN Security Council unanimously adopted resolution 1888, which builds upon the principles and obligations of previous Security Council resolutions 1325 (2000) and 1820 (2008). Operative paragraph 8 of the resolution calls upon the Secretary-General of the United Nations to take measures to identify and deploy a team of experts “to situations of particular concern with respect to sexual violence in armed conflict” in order to “assist national authorities . . . to strengthen the rule of law”. Based on operative paragraph 8, the UN entities leading on rule of law at the time (Department of Peacekeeping Operations now DPO, OHCHR and UNDP) established the Team of Experts and agreed to form and participate in an Advisory Group to be chaired by the Team Leader of the UN Team of Experts.

The 2020-2024 Joint Programme expands the Advisory Group to include the following co-lead entities: DPO, OHCHR, Office of the SRSB-SVC and UNDP.

Advisory Group Functions –

Programme

- Provide programmatic guidance and oversee the management and delivery of the Joint Programme to ensure targeted results, coherence and impact over time;
- Provide advice and guidance to the Team of Experts on possible countries and thematic areas of engagement, and partnerships;
- Provide advice and guidance on how the Team of Experts can enhance programming of the co-lead entities;
- Endorse annual and final reports of the Team of Experts;
- Support the implementation of Team of Experts recommendations, including those identified on the basis of country-specific assessments; and
- Facilitate the signature of Joint Programmes of the Team of Experts by the respective co-lead entities and participate in other approval processes as needed.

Resources

- Support the Team of Experts in its efforts to mobilize resources; and
- Endorse the transfer of Team of Experts’ funds among co-lead and non-co-lead entities.

Coordination

- Promote and facilitate collaborative working relationships between the Team of Experts and the co-lead entities in line with UN core values and relevant policies, rules and regulations.

Staff

- Engage in the selection of the Team Leader and Deputy Team Leader of the Team of Experts through, inter alia, participation in interview panels; and
- Agree on the creation, establishment and placement of any new Team of Experts posts not which are included in this Joint Programme.

Outreach

- Ensure visibility of the Team of Experts through strategic communication and public information efforts.

Chair of the Advisory Group – Advisory Group meetings shall be chaired by the Team Leader of the Team of Experts. In the absence of the Team Leader, the Deputy Team Leader will convene the meeting(s). The Chair will organize and facilitate meetings and prepare meeting minutes summarizing the meeting, documenting key decisions, and noting action points.

Size and Composition of the Advisory Group – The Advisory Group shall consist of a representative from each of the co-lead entities contributing a member to the Team of Experts (DPO, OHCHR, Office of the SRSB-SVC, and UNDP). Advisory Group representatives will differ from the members of the Team of Experts. If in the future an additional UN entity contributes a member to the Team of Experts, the entity will be requested to identify a representative to participate in the Advisory Group. In case of absence, the respective Advisory Group representatives will designate an alternate representative from the respective entity to participate in the meeting(s).

Other Participants – The Chair may request the participation of representatives of other UN or non-UN entities or other individuals in the Advisory Group meetings as appropriate.

Decision Points – The Advisory Group will make decisions on issues set forth in the Advisory Group Functions section above as well as other issues raised by the Advisory Group representatives and members of the Team of Experts where appropriate.

Decision Making – The Advisory Group will make decisions based on consensus. In the event consensus cannot be reached, decisions will be taken based on a majority of all co-lead entities.

Agenda – A meeting agenda will be prepared by the Chair in consultation with each representative to the Advisory Group and shared in advance of each meeting.

Meeting Frequency – The Advisory Group will hold regular meetings on a quarterly basis, based on an agreed calendar. Ad hoc meetings can be convened by the Chair or at the request of an Advisory Group representative as necessary.

Meeting Locations – The meetings of the Advisory Group shall be convened at a location designated by the Chair.

Meeting Minutes – Minutes of each Advisory Group meeting shall be prepared by the Chair and shared with each representative to the Advisory Group.
