I. Executive Summary

The focus of PGE IV in July-Sept 2017 continued on supporting institutional arrangement to prepare MoWA for the 3-year 'Leading the Way for Gender Equality' (LWGE) program.

An annual planning workshop to develop work plan of LWGE program for Sept-Dec 2017 was organized by end August. This consultative exercise helped to address some of the challenges experienced so far, especially when it comes to the lack of engagement and ownership of MoWA over the new program. 4-month work plan was later on finalized and approved by LWGE management team. The delivery and implementation of activities in 2017 remains concentrated in last quarter and will also require a very active response from MoWA staff.

The development of the 3-year Capacity Development Framework begun by end August after one national consultant was recruited to undertake it. She conducted a joint consultation with LWGE program staff and had several meetings with officers from various MoWA departments. Further consultation with DPs and line ministries will follow.

Selections processes for two international short-term consultancies were almost finished during reporting period, after feedback from MoWA on respective TORs was received. One consultancy will focus on evaluation of the NR4 implementation and monitoring to inform the development of next national gender policies and harmonized M&E system for those policies. Another consultancy will carry out a 'rapid' gender audit of two sectors (Education & Public Behavioral Change, and Governance) to analyse government and ODA resources in place for gender. This consultancy will also identify entry points for further cooperation with universities and the Royal School of Administration to promote gender-responsive curricula, among other issues.

Advice on localization of SDG 5 and gender mainstreaming across SDGs was provided on an ongoing basis. A meeting between the Minister and MoWA officials was facilitated to discuss on draft SDG 5 and agree on next steps. As a result, some of the indicators and targets of SDG 5 were improved: for example, one law to address discrimination against women in key and emerging issues was included as indicator; targets for women in decision making positions were made more ambitious to get closer to 50 percent, which will incentivize advocacy efforts from stakeholders and CSOs; and some indicators on prevalence of violence against women were corrected. Localized SDGs will be revised by end 2017 by a core group comprised by MoP, SNEC and MoEF, and submitted to Council of Ministers for final review and endorsement.

A discussion on NIM modality took place and involved UNDP Country Office (Nimnuon and Amara), PGE (Rodrigo and Chheng), LWGE program management team and MoWA officers in charge of finances in LWGE program. This discussion meant to clarify roles and responsibilities of MoWA for NIM modality, as the MoWA team members involved in LWGE program have not worked with NIM modality before.

Sida continued with its internal review and clearance of the LWGE program proposal. No feedback from Sida on the LWGE program proposal was received during reporting period.

The TWG on Women, Leadership and Governance (TWG-WLG) is also expected to serve as a platform for better inter-ministerial and multistakeholders coordination to increase number of women in decision making. The launching of this Working Group has been postponed by MoWA until end 2017. | | | | | | |

Capacity Development

Capacity Development is a core element of the PGE IV project and the LWGE program. The development of a Capacity Development Framework for the LWGE program begun in reporting period, with support from a national short-term consultant recruited under PGE IV. This framework will incorporate measures for building capacities across the 3 components of the program and focused on 4 levels: individual, program, institutional and stakeholders-network levels. This framework will build on the previous capacity development assessments undertaken so far, the 3-Year Work Plan of the LWGE program and the measures initially identified in there. It will also include a monitoring and results matrix with baselines, targets and indicators to measure progresses in capacity building of MoWA staff.

Gender Marker (GEN3)

The PGE IV project is entirely focused on promoting gender equality and the empowerment of women as principal objective. Two additional focuses are on promoting the rights of disadvantaged groups of women and girls as well as on engaging men for gender equality. Hence the gender marker GEN3 is applicable for all deliverables and activities of the project and does not require further revision.

Lessons Learned

The PGE IV Prodoc will need to be adjusted to fully align it under the LWGE program and better outlining the expected results of PGE IV in document. Further lessons learned, challenges and solutions can be found below under "Updated project issues and actions" section.

MoWA will have to coordinate appointments of consultant with target line ministries. |

| | | | | | | | Technical officers of MoWA (director of Planning Dpt. and head of TWG-G Secretariat) have not been taking SDGs very seriously, |

| | | | | | but UNDP gender specialist managed to arrange a meeting between them, Minister and other MoWA senior officials for an internal discussion about SDG 5 and mainstreaming gender across SDGs. |
|---|---|--------------------|------------|--|---|
| 6 | Some project activities rely on Capacity of MoWA to mobilize resource for ensuring the continuation of LWGE if Sida delays in funding the program | Organiz ational | P=1 I=5 | Closely engage and link up the collaboriation of MoWA, Sida, UNDP. | MoWA has not been fully onboard with the program yet, due to the facts that Sida's funds have not yet been in place and that DIM modality contravenes ownership of MoWA. |

b. Updated project issues and actions

The Annual Technical Planning Workshop organized by end August helped to address and define the roles and responsibilities of MoWA staff for the program, and it also helped to increase sense of ownership and engagement of MoWA.

Despite some management gaps of LWGE program team, the speed in implementation of activities gained traction after Work Plan was developed in a participatory process. Planned activities from Sept to Dec 2017 will also help to exercise the MoWA team and their capabilities.

It is foreseen that MoWA will be even more on top of the program once official agreements with Sida are endorsed and when the Program Steering Committee starts functioning. Change of PGE IV from DIM to NIM is expected to contribute to increase engagement of MoWA for the program as well.

Clear roles and responsibilities of LWGE program management team should also be laid out in their TOR approved by the Program Steering Committee.

Close follow-up with Sida is required in order to ensure that agreements are signed the soonest in 2017, especially because there is almost none TRAC budget available for implementation of activities in 2018.
