Background:

Corruption in Nigeria is an endemic, pervasive and systemic problem, which over time has been perceived as capable of threatening the very existence of the nation. The impact of corruption on Nigeria's society and economy has been devastating, particularly as it continues to affect the Government's ability to provide basic services and directly impacts on the well-being of the population and its ability to rise out of poverty.

Nigeria has an array of laws and institutions to combat corruption. Despite the existence of these laws and institutions, Nigeria still falls short of the standards and requirements of an effective anti-corruption regime as embodied in international anti-corruption conventions. Government has proposed interventions at the policy, technical and institutional levels to combat corruption in line with local and international initiatives in particular vision 20:2020 and the Millennium Development Goals.

To complement the efforts of the Nigerian government, the UNDAF III will support the anti-corruption agencies to address the causes of corruption through research, capacity building and enhance coordination among the institutions.

Key Developmental Challenges in Programme area:

The key developmental challenges in this programme are as follows:

- Corruption and the misappropriation of resources are undermining Nigeria's efforts to achieve the MDGs, the National Vision 20:2020 and the Transformation Agenda. Corruption is also contributing to Nigeria's continued low ranking on UNDP's Human Development Index (HDI).

- Inadequate resources, weak capacities, political interference, lack of coordination and overlapping mandates are some of the challenges that bedevil Nigerian anti-corruption agencies in the exercise of their functions.
- Linked to the aforementioned is the absence of a home-grown, prioritized, and coordinated national policy framework on anti-corruption to articulate and set the tone of the nation's anti-corruption agenda as well as benchmark progress.

Lessons Learnt from 2013 Implementation:

- Collaboration between the ACAs in the implementation of the CRA project brought together technical competencies that enhanced the process.
- To curb corrupt practices successfully, CRA and integrity planning need to be an on-going exercise and needs to be integrated into the daily operations within the sector assessed.
- Collaboration and Information flow between the Federal and State partners was very useful and proved effective for programme implementation particularly with regards to the scoping surveys that were conducted by the Technical Unit on Governance and Anti-Corruption Reform (TUGAR) in the UNDP partnership states;
- The youth population are not substantially engaged and involved in the crusade against corruption despite the enormous potential these young people possess

Emerging programmatic priorities for 2014: The emerging programmatic priorities include:

- Further integration of anti-corruption into efforts to achieve the MDGs and other development objectives set by the Nigerian Government through the conduct of corruption risk assessments and the implementation of integrity plans.
- Improved coordination and collaboration among the anti-corruption agencies under the platform of the Inter-Agency Task Team against Corruption (IATT) including continued implementation of Phase 1 of the National Strategy to Combat Corruption pending adoption.
- Increased youth engagement in the crusade against corruption through education and use of creative and innovative approaches to expose and report corruption

Implementation and Monitoring Arrangements: (Implementation and Monitoring arrangements should be consistent with agreed programming arrangements. Specifically, major Monitoring and Evaluation activities to be carried out in the year, including RBM capacity building, communication, reporting and HACT implementation)

Relevant statistics related to your sector from MDG reports, National Bureau of statistics, internal reports, surveys, should be used as evidence base to substantiate the profile.
