Deliverable
Report

Center for Economic Research in Pakistan deployed the BCURE (Building Capacity to Use Research Evidence) training modules developed by Evidence for Policy Design (EPoD) at Harvard Kennedy School. The trainees were civil servants from 108th National Management Course and 23rd Senior Management Course.

The trainings were conducted as part of the activities to be completed under the Letter of Agreement signed between the United Nations Development Programme and the National School of Public Policy for the implementation of the project, titled "Reforms & Innovation in Government for High Performance".

Following BCURE Modules were deployed in these courses:

Impact Evaluations:

The module equips policy decision-makers with practical skills and frameworks for effectively applying data and evidence in their work. The objectives of the course are:

- Establish how impact evaluations can play a role in the policy decision-making process.
- Explain how impact evaluations estimate impacts of social programs.
- Elaborate & discuss the meaning and importance of the "counterfactual" in evaluations.
- Enable the trainees to ask critical questions to assess impact evaluations.

Systematic Approaches to Policy Decisions

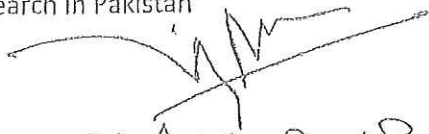

This module reviews three alternative approaches to make systematic decisions – cost benefit analysis, decision analysis and policy analysis matrices. The unit aims to help the trainees to:

- Understand where, within the policy decision-making process, different approaches to analyzing policy decisions might be most useful.
- Understand the merits and limitations of different approaches to policy decision-making.

The summary details of the deployment is as below:
