Community Security Project

PROJECT SUMMARY

All work carried out by the Community Security Project (CSP) supports the Somali Compact. The Somali Compact is based on the Busan New Deal principles and developed by the Federal Government of Somalia (FGS) and the international community. The Compact defines the priorities of Somalia for the period 2014-2016. Within this compact, the CSP supports the Peace and Statebuilding Goals' (PSGs) 3 on Justice, 2 on Security; and 4 on Economic foundations and also supports the cross cutting areas of gender, and strengthening citizen and state relationships. The CSP supports the Somaliland (SL) Special Arrangement as defined within the Compact aligned with the PSGs 3 and 4.

The year 2012 ended with the CSP successfully completing the pilot phase of the youth social rehabilitation and reintegration, formalizing work in the areas of Community Security and Peace-building (CSPB) through policy development in Puntland (PL) and SL; and strengthening research capacities within the Observatory of Conflict and Violence Prevention (OCVP). Building onto this work, the focus in 2013 committed to and achieved the following:

- (1) Expansion on the youth reintegration programme by incorporating new activities that engage youth in direct conflict with the law and at-risk. This resulted in developing the Youth for Change (Y4C) joint initiative, which was implemented in partnership with UNDP, ILO and UNICEF. The CSP successfully identified, registered and socially rehabilitated 940 youth (219 females) through the UNDP led component of the programme.
- (2) In an attempt to develop the necessary structures for engagement with youth in conflict with the law, the project supported the downstream part of Parole schemes by providing social rehabilitation opportunities to youth to be released from prison and linking them to economic alternatives. However the legal framework for such schemes is meant to fall under the auspices of government legislation (e.g. the SL Prison act) and these structures are yet to be fully endorsed.
- The CSP provided support to the informal and formal justice systems by standardizing the Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) in order to ensure that traditional ways of resolving disputes and the interface between formal and traditional systems are compatible and consistent. The ADR process was standardized through wide consultation with traditional and formal justice actors. The CSP thereafter developed a Training Manual on processes to include basic human rights standards and a Regulatory Framework. The pilot initiative began in 2013 with the identification and training of ADR practitioners in PL and will continue with the establishment of Community Dispute Houses in 2014.
- (3) Over 2013, the CSP supported evidence-based programme design (EBD) through engaging with the United Nations Institute for Disarmament Research (UNIDIR) in order to support the project on 'Research and Development on Evidence-Based Programme Design for Reintegration'. Through this project, a prototype for an EBD tool for use by reintegration practitioners was developed and refined through the first two of three phases, utilizing the CSP experience in the Y4C. The test Phase will be carried out in 2014.
- (4) A 3 year grant was awarded to the OCVP in partnership with the CSP (by DFID) to support efforts in research, knowledge management and training. Over 2013, the CSP provided technical support to the research efforts, assisted in refining research methodology and participated in the publications for 8 DCSAs and data collection across the three Somali regions. In 2014, the CSP will support the OCVP in development of policy briefings, a database to archive collected data, publication of 2014 DCSAs, and continue to expand its outreach and network through global forums in security research.
- (5) In support of the CSPB policy development over 2012 and early 2013; the CSP focused on capacity building at the ministerial level through the CSPB Units, and high level coordination by establishing the CSPB Working Group at Heads of Agencies (in Nairobi) and the technical regional levels (in SL and PL). Other support was provided to national planning development to include the Madum and Prison acts in SL, the CSPB Policy in PL, and the National programme on Disengaged Combatants and at-risk Youth and the Revival of Traditional Justice Mechanisms in SC.

The key challenges included: (1) insecurity in SC and PL resulted in inconsistent access to projects by staff. (2) Disagreement between the Ministry of Justice (MOJ) and the Ministry of Interior (MOI) over implementation modalities for the CSP activities resulted in the suspension of all CSP activities in SC and the reallocation of resources to PL and SL. Looking towards 2014, implementation modalities were agreed to for re-engagement in SC. The CSP attracted international support through partnership with the BCPR and UNIDIR. Policy and regulatory frameworks created in 2013 will support the standardization of the existing grassroots structures to better complement the formal systems

CONTEXTUAL ANALYSIS

FEDERAL LEVEL

In 2013, all CSP activities were suspended 9 July 2013 due to lack of clarity on the mode of implementation of the Y4C under the MOI and the MOJ. The attack on the UNCC compound (19 June) caused subsequent heightened security alerts and less access for CSP staff. The FGS Somali Compact was endorsed at the Brussels conference (Sept.), defining the next 3 years of federal level priorities together with funding and coordination mechanisms. A Legal Consultant engaged in Q3 provided legal recommendations to the FGS in order to develop a nationally-owned legal framework for handing disengaged combatants, as envisaged in the National Programme.

The year ends with an agreed implementation modality for CSP activities in December and the planning for 2014 has commenced. . The CSP will resume its activities upon the availability of funding in Q1 2014 to cover programming in traditional conflict resolution mechanisms, reconciliation and the provision of social alternatives to at risk youth.

PUNTLAND

Cancellation of elections in 2013 and Al-Shabaab activity added to the sensitive political context in PL throughout 2013. Due to on-going conflict, CSP resources marked for Galkayo were reallocated to the Bossaso and Gardo. Although there were periods of time throughout the year where CSP staff were limited to the level of access to project sites, activities were successfully implemented in Bossaso, Gardo, and even expanded to Eyl and Garowe. In Eyl and Garowe, relationships with the municipalities were strengthened in establishing a mechanism for direct Y4C oversight of implementation by the Mayor's office, District Council (DC) and Peace and Security Committees. CSP activities were lessened at the year's end due to mounting tensions and heightened threats of insecurity associated with the upcoming 8th January 2014 elections.

SOMALILAND

SL remained relatively peaceful throughout the year, allowing smooth implementation of CSP activities within our target districts (Hargiesa, Borama, Las Anod and Burao). In 2013 there was a reshuffle within the ministries leading to the placement of a new Minister of Interior. Dialogue efforts to bridge the gap between the SL (seeking independence) and Somalia (seeking to preserve the union) were postponed until January 2014. UNSOM is not present in SL and therefore the government denied the need for it to further demonstrate its desire to not to belong to the unified Federal State of Somalia.

Talks and negotiations for oil exploration have resumed, leading the attention of the CSPB community to focused the potential for new conflict to flare up unless there are coping structures put in place to mitigate the chances for conflict (e.g. in the Togdheer region). Under the Somali Compact, SL special arrangements were provided whereby the CSP supports PSGs 3: Justice and 4: Economic.

ACTIVITY HIGHLIGHTS

FEDERAL LEVEL

SC Reconciliation Music Festival was held between 20 March and 5 April in Mogadishu and Baidoa. Activities were put on hold on 9 July 2013. Under the CSP, a legal consultant developed recommendations for the legal framework for the National Programme for the Treatment and Handling of Disengaging Combatants and at Risk Youth in Somalia. DCSA data collection was conducted for Baidoa. The OCVP started negotiations in Q4 to open a satellite office Mogadishu and registered the Institution with the FGS. Relationships between the CSP and the new government were strengthened in the last quarter of 2014.

PUNTLAND

A total of 439 youth (M: 342; F: 97) underwent social rehabilitation. The PL CSPB Policy was endorsed by the MOS-DDR. Support provided to the technical working group helped to coordinate practitioners for better information sharing on CSPB issues. The OCVP completed 4 DCSAs in partnership with the East African University (EAU). A programme for ADR and restorative justice was developed through consultation with traditional and formal justice practitioners, accompanied by trainings on Human Rights and standard procedures. A comprehensive training manual and the Regulatory Framework was developed to ensure that traditional practices are used to complement the formal justice system. The CSP engaged with new locations to include Eyl, Gardo and Garowe to tackle youth violence.

SOMALILAND

A total of 546 youth (M: 396, F: 150) underwent social rehabilitation from the first and second intake. The roll-out of the CSPB policy and support to the technical working group led to an increase in coordination and information sharing/ forum for community security issues. Relationships with the MOI remain strong however capacity support to the CSPB Unit remains limited. A new relationship with MOJ developed in 2013 in order to increase interventions to include: (a) engaging youth in conflict with the law and providing them with social and economic alternatives to criminal activity; and (b) support to policy development (i.e. Prison act, Madum Act, Police act). The OCVP completed 8 District Conflict and Safety Assessments (DCSA) for all three regions.

PARTNERSHIPS

Y4C the key partners are UNICEF, ILO and UNDP PREP. The CSP worked in close collaboration with the MOI and MOJ SL; the MOS-DDR and the MOJ in PL, and MOI and MOJ at the Federal level. Other partnerships engaged included: (1) DFID has supported the OCVP in the development of three years of research support. (2) UNIDIR supported the CSP team with training on Evidence based programme design. (3) ACTION Support Centre Coordination and Support Action for Conflict Transformation Centre partnered with the CSP and provided Applied Conflict Transformation course to two members of the FGS in Cape Town, South Africa. (4) UNFPA and PL Youth Peer Network (Y-PEER) supported youth empowerment training of 66 male youth in Ghardo. (5) The UNDP HIV/AIDS Unit provided HIV/AIDS training to CSP beneficiaries. (6) Humanitarian Bazaar, Wayaha Cussub, developed a documentary of the Mogadishu Reconciliation Music Festival which was partially supported by CSP through the Bill Brookman Foundation (BBF). (7) The CSP works with JPLG to integrate security priorities into the Annual Work Planning under the District Development Frameworks for 2014. (8) BCPR worked closely with the CSP on developing the larger scaled programming for youth reintegration. (9) The CSP partnered with Access to Justice and UNICEF in support to the Juvenile Justice Act.

Community Security Project

PEACE AND CONFLICT

The CSP directly supports to Peacebuilding efforts in Somalia. CSP's overall aim is to increase community security through supporting traditional conflict resolution and providing alternatives to actual and potential actors of violence and at-risk youth. According to local authorities and community members, the work in these areas over 2013 greatly contributed to the increase of the overall security within the target districts. The data collected in the DCSAs serves as baseline for comparison to measure changes in the levels of security, crime and conflict. These will be collected annually by the OCVP. Under the CSPB policies, the work of the wider CSPB community is coordinated monthly at the ministerial level in both SL and PL in order to ensure complementarity in programming and interventions are not duplicated. So far anecdotal evidence suggests that CSP activities have largely contributed to the increased security in the target districts in SL and PL.

GENDER

Although attracting females into the youth programme has been a known challenge, there was an increase of 19% in the intake of female beneficiaries from the pilot phase (6% total females) to the second phase (25% total females). With the increase in female beneficiaries, the programme has included more services, courses and vocations to suit the female caseload. 20% percentage of committee members (M: 90; F: 23) and 26% of Y4C support staff were female (M: 98, F: 35). As gender mainstreaming is prioritized in the Somali Compact where emphasis is placed on women's role in stabilization, the CSP will include this in longer term programming by incorporating females into positions of leadership and decision making. Last, data in the DCSAs is disaggregated by sex in order to analyze correlations in experiences and perceptions of crime and violence. More thorough analysis of these assessments will be made available in 2014.

UPCOMING QUARTER

In 2014, the CSP will continue its work through a social cohesion approach by providing interventions in the areas of: (1) building onto traditional peacebuilding mechanisms and supporting reconciliation efforts; (2) provide social alternatives to crime/violence, increase skill-sets and access to livelihood opportunities for actual actors of crime and violence, or those disenfranchised, at-risk youth without prospects; and last, (3) support research efforts on Governance and Rule of Law interventions and the state of conflict and security. Interventions will be tailored to the particular context of each region and district in order to ensure that they are needs-based, demand driven and aligned to the Somali Compact. While Community Security supports PSG 2: Security, 3: Justice and 4: building economic foundations, its interventions also cut across most areas of development interventions.

Community Security Project

REFLECTIONS / LESSONS

2013 achievements and areas for improvement include the following: (1) lessons learned from the pilot phase were successfully applied to the current Y4C joint initiative. However, the Y4C was initially designed to incorporate mechanism to engage youth in conflict with both the formal and traditional justice systems. Within the formal justice system a parole / probation mechanism was proposed, however there was no legal framework to officially support it in SL and PL. In addition, the CSP provided rehabilitation to youth in prisons, however upon their release did not complete the programme (in most cases) as they were not formally linked to a follow-up mechanism. (2) A guidance note was created for the Y4C Voluntary Enrollment Mechanism (VEM) which provided standard procedures for the identification of youth from the communities, whereby the local police were asked to engage in the identification process; however this confused the role of the authorities. (3) Initially, traditional mechanisms providing ADR were anticipated to deliver a referral mechanism (by sheiks and Elders). However, more work was needed to fully map out the existing systems and the types of cases that ADR is used for. This instead evolved into a full scale programme for standardization of ADR practices throughout PL (to be carried out of 2014). (4) Key recommendations for future youth programming provide: (a) A formal legal framework is necessary in order to ensure that the youth from this cohort are able to fully benefit from the programme with complete training. (b) The rehabilitation of at-risk youth identified by the community should be voluntary and remain outside of the formal legal system. (c) A clear set of criteria tailored to each district must be agreed with the authorities prior to commencement. (5) The recent tracer study (to be published January 2014) has highlighted the need to refine the economic reintegration component of the programme emphasizing the need for stronger linkages to relevant counterparts and increased of quality of trainings and provision of certification.

- (5) The DCSAs provide a valuable resource to practitioners on peace and conflict per district which can be comparatively analyzed for change in levels of peace and security. Although the research capacities have continued to increase under the OCVP, there is a gap in mechanisms to collect real time data. A mechanism is needed in order to routinely measure frequency of occurrence of incidents, in order for the CSP to draw correlations with its programming.
- (6) Both the SL and PL CSPB policies provided a valuable tool for guidance and coordination of actors. However, there are gaps in the proposed infrastructure where the CSPB Units within the ministries lack serious capacities, resources and the buyin of the government. The status and role of the DSCs are unclear. In the future these will fall under the JPLG the Committees and be attached as Advisory Bodies to the DCs in 2014.
