| Building on the current improved relationship between the UN and government, the opportunity offered by signing a new cooperation framework the SPCF and the importance of Eritrea in influencing regional peace and security; the project aims to support activities for strengthening community resilience through support for food security and sustainable livelihoods, access to water, and build mechanisms of village committees for stronger solidarity and resilience mechanisms. In supporting the capacity of selected communities, the project envisages to support youth and women's capacity to engage and work in food security and livelihoods to build medium and long term resilience and minimizing risks, prevent man-made and/or natural shocks, avert major development setbacks and promote sustainable human development. |
| Furthermore the proposed project aims to support and strengthen UNDP's and the UNCT's engagement in Eritrea through the provision of analytical and strategic advice, high quality technical support, enhanced social cohesion and peace building, identification and development of entry points or international advocacy in support of national efforts for sustainable development.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| In other words, the fund requested from BCPR will support various activities for enhanced community solidarity, resilience, food security and sustainable livelihoods in selected areas of the country. The resources will also contribute to the advisory support to help the UN's efforts in strategic analysis and international advocacy to accompany Eritrea's development efforts. The project will start in the Southern Red Sea and it is expected that the project will be scaled up with availability of more resources to cover more areas and to ensure sustainability of results.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
