The Government of Ethiopia (GoE) has within its' wider effort on poverty eradication, elaborated and articulated a clear agenda on democracy building and consolidation. The focus is, as embedded in the GTP, on good governance, strengthening the democratic system, capacity building and improving the justice system. The GoE has adopted a multiparty parliamentary system and a federal structure devolving power to nine regions and two city administrations.

It has also embarked on a process of capacitating the governance architecture; reforming the civil service and the justice sector, deepening decentralization and improving the delivery of basic services. These gains have improved the human rights systems and broadened potential opportunities for political participation. However, the reform process is work in progress and concerted effort is still needed to translate the fledgling capacity of democratic institutions into strong political, legal and instructional restraint on the discretionary power of the executive.

This project is, therefore, a capacity development initiative aimed at consolidating and sustaining the established positive momentum on building democracy in Ethiopia. The strategic orientation of the project is to enhance government responsiveness to sustainable development by strengthening institutions, mechanisms and processes that facilitate and promote transparency, accountability, rule of law, human rights and wider participation.
