Grant:	AID-522-IO-11-00001 UNDP Elections and Citizen Security
Duration:	October 1, 2011 – June 30, 2013
Total Budget:	USD 2,073,610.00 (Federal) USD 646,856.00 (Non-Federal)

October 2012

Semi-annual Performance Report

Reporting Period: April 2012 – September 2012

Introduction

This semi-annual performance report has been prepared in compliance with the reporting requirements contained in the above-mentioned Grant Agreement, focusing on the progress of the outputs during the second semester after the signature of the Agreement. The report also reflects progress in accordance with the proposed performance monitoring plan.

Component 1 Electoral Technical Assistance

Total budget of the component: USD800,000.00 (Federal)
 USD280,000.00 (Non-Federal)

The activities planned and financed for the Electoral Assistance Component of this Grant were agreed and approved in November 2011 during a Project Board meeting attended by Magistrates off the Supreme Electoral Tribunal (TSE), personnel of the Electoral Assistance Project (ATE), a USAID delegate and UNDP personnel. Subsequently, on August 14, 2012 a new Project Board updated the activities and financial arrangements.

The UNDP/USAID agreement consolidates the ATE Project presence (implemented since 2008) in the second continuous electoral cycle: the 2012 primary elections and the 2013 general elections. As it has been regularly reported, the complexity of the 2012 Primary Process has escalated. On August 23, by Decree 140-2012, the National Congress approved a partial reform to the legislature regarding political parties and electoral laws, extending the deadline set by the TSE to rectify, correct and/or supplement the information contained in the lists of elected officials. Another reform refers to the validation of nominations by agreement and consensus and the way they will undergo scrutiny.

Thus, the Honduran political system has undergone some changes in terms of new political parties being registered (from five to nine); it also faces the challenge of holding primary elections which, for the first time, involve a third party which emerged from the 2009 crisis. Another significant element is the registration of candidates, by consensus, to the positions of President of the Republic and members of Congress by two of the three political parties attending the primary elections (PL and Libre).

UNDP's Electoral Assistance Component is implemented through a national implementation modality, a standard in the UN System in Honduras. The National Director of the Project is the President of the TSE and the Project Coordination is under the responsibility of an International Technical Adviser. The Project Support Unit is integrated by an International Electoral Technical Officer based in Honduras and administrative support personnel; all unit personnel hold UNDP contracts. The efforts made to strengthen coordination between the RNP and the TSE have resulted in a more transparent process of change of domicile and an enhanced National Electoral Roll.

The Component implemented part of the activities contained in the Annual October 2011/ September 2012 Work Plan, particularly in relation to technical assistance to legal reforms and reassessment of operative units: (1) assistance and support of the universalization of civic-political education at regional and national level (2); strengthening of the Citizenship Participation Unit and of the operative units for gender, people with disabilities, political parties, youth and indigenous and afro-Honduran people, political and social organizations; and (3) an effective and efficient maintenance of office facilities and human resources. In addition, the report describes the progress of activities agreed to in the September 2012-December 2013 Work Plan: (1) Technical assistance to the legal/regulatory framework and the adaptation of operational units in charge of Census, Cartography, IT, TREP and Scrutiny; (2) Technical assistance to Electoral Training: Support for the selection, recruitment and training of electoral trainers and MER members, and (3) Guaranteed effective management and monitoring of the project and effective maintenance of the project's human resources, equipment and office facilities.

Section 1 – Problems, Remedial Actions and Risks

Problems encountered: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. As expected, a one-time reform was made aimed at favoring movements which had not completed their documentation neither to register in time nor to present nominations arrived at by agreement or consensus.2. The TSE has yet to receive the entire budget allocated for the November 18 primary elections.3. The IPECC failed to consolidate itself and become the governing body for electoral training.4. Delays in making technical and institutional policy decisions (composition of polling stations, TREP) affect training and preparation of voting kits).	Proposed remedial actions: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. The TSE implemented the approved reform, adjusting the deadlines to avoid compromising the electoral calendar.2. The budget is flowing in weekly batches. It is not ideal but it allows for liquidity.3. A training plan for trainers was promoted that strengthened the existing capacity in the TSE (UN/BRIDGE course).4. Personal and written approaches requesting notification of decisions taken and warning of technical and political risks.
Risks: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. MER's proper management is affected by the uncertainty caused by belated decisions which were not communicated in due time.2. The process shows gaps and lack of harmony in its essential components due to the disproportionate progress of various projects.3. Insufficient coordination and collaboration among the various forms of technical assistance and international observation may produce different messages and affect technical coherence.

Section 2 - Achievements towards results

Output 1:

Technical Assistance and follow up to the legal reforms (law and regulations) and reassessment of operative units.

Semi-annual Performance Report

Reporting Period: April 2012 – September 2012

Targets:

- a. TSE strengthened with operational units headed by adequate personnel.

Achievements of the period:

- Heads of Census, Cartography and IT chosen via a competitive selection process are working in the development of the electoral process. New hiring follows the established guidelines.
- The home address update process was carried out in close collaboration with the RNP, as well as the preparation of inputs for the Preliminary Census.
- The final updating and purging process for the National Electoral Roll was carried out according to the international standards and procedures--written and approved by the Magistrates Plenary--that constitute the Census Manual.
- Scrutiny Management operating, organized and with Technical Support from the project. First system test is scheduled for November 5.
- TREP Management operating, organized and with Technical Support from the project. First simulation is scheduled for November 4.

Semi-annual Performance Report

Reporting Period: April 2012 – September 2012

Lessons learned

The Honduran electoral system continues to require major reforms to prevent last-minute changes and avoid helping special interest groups.

The characteristics of these primary elections demonstrate the system's serious resistance to absorbing changes to the status quo and promoting inclusive and equitable game rules.

The positive results shown by the new leadership renews the belief that it is necessary to resume strengthening the IPECC.

The funds are sufficient for this phase of the primary election process. As a result of the TSE's delays in decision making and therefore, in beginning the training, we have analyzed the budget and made adjustments that allow implementing key activities between December 2012 and February 2013. These will be reflected and explained in the next financial report.

Conclusion

Technical assistance has had a very positive impact that can be assessed through objective indicators associated with the management of key projects for the election. The Plenary remains very receptive to joint work.

Repeatedly reported political pressures shed uncertainty on election night developments and the dissemination of results. Despite the context and the political conjunction, the TSE keeps its path of institutional strengthening and the ATE project has kept on focalizing toward human resources professionalization.

ATE Project will strictly address electoral technical issues: regulations for the primary process, support for the planning, monitoring and follow up of the diverse electoral projects that compose the electoral process and that need articulation as well as harmonization (in funding and timing).

Section 3: Progress on Performance Indicators

Indicators evaluation according to the PMP:

Indicator 1 – Strengthening IPECC: 2 points (the electoral training structure is defined and operating. We must move forward with the creation of its Directorate and the civic education section).

Indicator 2 – A Manual for continuous census' process update for which implementation has begun: 3 points

Indicator 3 – Support for updating regulations hinged on TSE decisions: 2 points

Indicator 4 – Coordination with the RNP: 3 points

Component 2: Technical Assistance in Citizen Identification

Total budget of the component: USD500,000.00 (Federal)
 USD155,000.00 (Non-Federal)

Section 1 – Problems, Remedial Actions and Risks

Problems encountered: Electoral cycle dynamics generate a high demand for resources at every level (financial, human resources, spaces, etc.), and in this case there is a delay (fixable) in getting funds from the Central Government that does not allow performing some actions that could expedite the issuance and delivery of the Identity Cards to citizens.	Proposed remedial actions: Several meetings have been held with the Central Government, especially with the Finance Ministry, to address the RNP's financial requirements, achieving commitments and deadlines that will help solve the problems in this area.
Risks: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1) The main risk is the country's electoral context, which in turn becomes a great opportunity for initiating a qualitative leap for an inclusive citizen identification process with a human rights and development perspective.2) Problems regarding the approval of regular or extraordinary budgetary resources requested by the RNP, as well as those associated with the timely availability thereof, may generate situations which will adversely affect the project's development.3) During the electoral cycle, a high demand for resources is generated at every level (financial, human resources, spaces, etc.); we trust that this project has the adequate resources so that the implementation of planned activities is not significantly affected.

Component 3. Development of Public Policies of Citizen Security and Coexistence

Total budget: USD773,610.00 (Federal)
USD211,855.61 (Non-Federal)

In Honduras, the situation of violence and crime, which has been rising since the 1990s, has increased exponentially over the past seven years. According to data from the Observatory of Violence, 7,104 violent deaths were recorded in 2011, 865 more than the previous year, reaching a national rate of 85.6. These numbers rank Honduras as the most violent country in the Latin American region, where San Pedro Sula and La Ceiba show 181.5 and 166.4 homicides per 100,000 inhabitants respectively.

Work in citizen security and coexistence in the municipalities of San Pedro Sula, La Ceiba, Choloma and Tela brings with it immense challenges, not only because of the deteriorating conditions of violence in the area, but as a result of current political campaigning by local leaders in the aforementioned municipalities who are seeking reelection.

In addition, the weakness observed among justice officials in that part of the country has become even more critical due to a reduction in personnel resulting from staff changes and dismissals carried out by the Ministry of Security and the Public Prosecutor's Office due to problems of corruption and collusion with organized crime discovered within the National Police and their lack of effectiveness in investigations, a situation that has forced the Government and the legislature to create mechanisms for transforming these entities, due to pressure from organized civil society groups.

Despite this situation, the Citizen Security Component results are perceived as positive, and there is progress in terms of information processing and analysis by national and local observatories. The practice of conflict mediation is being strengthened within the municipal governments through a certification course where 35 professionals from all four Mayor's Offices and the Central District are receiving training. In addition, Mediation and Conciliation Units have been created in San Pedro Sula and Tela within their Municipal Justice divisions to allow for the resolution of conflicts in these municipalities. Progress is also being made in bringing young people together to promote a culture of peace, with trained youth and groups of drummers, stilt walkers and three murals painted in Choloma, Tela and La Ceiba. Progress has been made with diagnoses and the development of local security plans in all four municipalities, under the leadership of the Coexistence and Citizen Security Councils.

Section 1 – Problems, Remedial Actions and Risks

Problems encountered:	Proposed remedial actions:
<ul style="list-style-type: none">- Between January and September 2012, the National Police and the Public Ministry encountered difficulties delivering information to the Observatory. The pressure for results put on the current head of the National Police is	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- A meeting was held with the Minister of Security and the Observatory Coordinator, agreeing to weekly data validation meetings with the D8 and Forensic Medicine. affecting the delivery of information. This problem affects not only the National Observatory, but the local observatories in San Pedro Sula, Choloma and La Ceiba as well. <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Problems with organized crime in Tela have prevented setting up an Observatory in that city, because it is not safe for the authorities or for the members of the University.- Difficulty starting an Observatory for citizen complaints due to relationship problems with the National Police, who must validate the activity.- There are still difficulties for starting the process with youth in San Pedro Sula, as Outreach Centers there lack the resources to join in the efforts.- Difficulties articulating with Outreach Center coordinators in San Judas and San Vicente in La Ceiba, due to the primary election period- Community mediation actions have been delayed due to the primary elections, as local government employees are engaging in political activities.- This problem will persist until mid-November. In all municipalities, the political momentum of the country's primary elections is diverting the attention of the Mayor and his team toward seeking media impact measures, not substantive solutions. This includes officials working in mediation and citizenship culture areas.- In terms of the Security Plans in the municipalities of San Pedro Sula, Choloma, Tela and La Ceiba, no adequate conditions exist for discussing security problems with all the Coexistence and Citizen Security Councils, due to a lack of confidence and the serious	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- The most viable option would be to produce a bulletin for the municipality of Tela from the La Ceiba Observatory.- A meeting has been scheduled with the Minister of Security to submit the proposal and launch the model in La Ceiba.- Contact has been initiated with COMVIDA in San Pedro Sula and the process with young people will begin in November.- A meeting will be set up with the Mayor and Deputy Mayor to improve coordination. The Office responsible for Childhood and Adolescence will assume the main responsibility.- An expert will be hired to monitor the process. The pilot will begin in La Ceiba and Choloma- Seeking the project's results is perceived as beneficial to the leaders' political futures.- The decision is made to assemble two subcommittees; one for prevention, formed by community-based institutions and organizations and civil society to discuss prevention problems, and the other with security and justice officials to formulate security actions.

Risks:

High presence of violence in some areas of intervention, which limits the scope of the objectives set out in relation to the impact of violence reduction.

Limited staff mobility in high danger areas in the four municipalities, which is where the highest rates of violence and crime are concentrated.

Fear among Community Board leaders and people in the communities of working in security and violence issues, which is related to threats and murders of people belonging to such organizations

Section 2 - Achievements towards results

Output 1: The national and local level violence observatories are strengthened in order to develop the public policies for citizen security and Coexistence.

Target:

Strengthening the technical capacity of the National Observatory of Violence and the local observatories in Choloma, Tela, San Pedro Sula and La Ceiba in order to improve statistical information and the production of reports which provide information on the violence and crime situation.

Achievements of the period:

- Bulletins have been issued for nine-month periods (January to September 2011); another covering a twelve-month period (January to December 2011); the first quarter of 2012 (January-March 2012); and the first half of 2012 (January - June 2012), both in print and digital versions.
