Brief Description

Gender Justice is the secrete mix of gender equality and equity. Everyone matters & Leaving no one behind are the corner stone towards it. Hence, UNDP Syria Country office team members are committed to support transformational gender equality & equity results with consideration to crisis context.

UNDP AWP 2022 and extended CPD followed gender transformative approach in its design, plan, and implementation. It relies on UNDP context sensitivity as well as gender analysis implemented by local stakeholder. Gender inequality is affected by power dynamics, roles and responsibilities influenced by other factors of identity, such as class, ethnicity, (dis)ability and age, which is called intersectionality. In UNDP SYRIA CO, we will tackle gender intersectionality primarily in (dis)ability and age through a clear framework; vertical & horizontal through main areas (individual, community, systems, its inter-relation with each other's and impact of role of law, traditions, and norms on the role and dynamic of these relationships).

Under this output, UNDP will continue working on women and young girls' skills, both cognitive and non-cognitive, to raise individual and surrounding communities' awareness, to enhance basic service and some specialized services such as PSS, survival support, etc. to support campaigns and advocacy actions to reduce inequalities. Innovative way has been adopted to generate gender analysis in a participatory approach, where local community members trained on research tools, support analysis process and later advocacy action as they become aware of the issues and its root causes.

All these actions will come together to foster a significant effect on how well women and young girls can navigate the available opportunities to overcome the negative coping strategies and engage meaningfully in different spheres of life. Hence, strengthening the self-reliance of these individuals is critical NEXUS point and necessary to lay the foundation for a medium- and longer-term recovery process in Syria which will in turn decrease dependence from humanitarian aid and social tension. UNDP implement all above through two major avenues for advancing gender justice: gender Mainstreaming with focus on Gender seal & Gender targeted actions (preventive, responsive and participation)

Moreover, UNDP Syria has applied for Gender Equality Seal in June 2021, and was officially welcomed on August 09th, 2021 to join UNDP's flagship initiative to build capacities and support transformational gender equality results in the company of other 14 Country Offices. UNDP Syria Country office is considered for Gender Seal's specialized track for crisis offices 2021-2023 Crisis track.
